MILITARY CLOTHING DEPOT, Market, between Pifth and Sixth sts.

Every now and then we have a streak of light and warmth from the dark cloud of the rebellion, and as such wo regard the reestablishment of an old Nashville lirm of extensive experience in our city, under the name of Webb, Cooke, & Co. It is good to have business men of such acknowledged character and experience locating among us. The stock of the new firm is fresh and varied. We looked over it yesterday, and were pleased to see that good taste had prosiled over the selection. We need not enumerate the varieties of caficoes, ginghams, prints, bareges, threads, hosiery, gloves, "notions," suspendeis, handkerchiefs, buttons, alpaea Instres, Irish linens and towelling, printed jacobets, reps, corded poplins, lawns, Swiss muslins, Econais, Mozambiques, eloths, satinets, doeskins, ribbons, taffetas, velvets, tarletans, silks, and satins, for all that goes toward that wonderful and mysterious process regardel as "costnme" for man or woman can be found at their stere, on the north side of Main street, between Fourth and Fifth. If variety is the spice of life, It must of course be recognized as very potent in the dry good line, and therefore we regard Messrs. Webb, Cooke, & Co. as

SERIOUS DIFFICULTY ESTWEEN SOLDIERS AND Ceptain—Why did you not voind see in the lancaster, Ohio, on Sturday last, between some members of the 17th Ohio, and a father and son by the name of See, who kept a drink—Captain—Iluve your f-elings been changed ing saloon. A correspondent of the Chacin-nati Gazette gives the following version of the uffair:

About alue o'clock some of the soldiers being in there drinking, ohe of them by the name of Little put his hand an the shoulder of young See and said: "George, I un lerstand you have hecome a copperhead." This was followed by some ill-untured reply, und young See turning agon Little, the latter pushed him him away with bis arm. Therappon the elder See drew his revolver and shot the soldier through the heart. As his comrales rushed forward to catch the body of the murdered Little, the old villain fired at their and dered Little, the old villain fired at their and mortally wounded one of them. This soldier has since died. This, then, was the act that fired the soldiers, and they armed themselves with the rapidity of lightning, and therentened the destruction of the town. They first sought to burn the saloen where their comrades were shot, but Col. While appealed to them so carneally as to along their purpose. But while he was speaking some of the men entered the building and completely guited it, pourny the building and completely guited it, pouring the liquor in the streets. These men, who seek protection from these roving bands, are at heart not disposed either to assist in pursuing and disbanding them, or in doing anything that would advance the in doing anything that would advance the interests of the government, unless such assistance enhances their own. They are enc-miss that the fortunes of war have left within our lines. They are desitons of conforming our lines. They are desitons of conforming to snything that will insure them protection, and guarantee a home. Their sympathies are with the rubellion, and all tho logic, and battles, and privations, and poverty, and oaths (that do not appease bneger) will avail no more to change their hearts than will the lashings of sea and occan to dissolve Gibraltar. Their enmity is as deep-rooted as the hatred the Indian bears the white man. The present will transmit it to the generation to come. Children will draw it from the breasts of mothers, and bo taught to lisp their fathers' hatred, even as Haunibal at the family altar. Subjugation will not crudicate it. It is in the blood. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26 1864.

THE WHEAT CROP .- Our farming friends in this vicinity tell us that the cold weather about the holidays destroyed the wheat to guch an extent that the crops will not yield to obtain reliable information as to the extent of this calamity, and we therefore request our agriculturists to send us the result of their personal experience, and we will take it as an especial favor if they will permit us to authenticate their, statements by publishing their letters with their signatures. We know, from sources entitled to the highest credit, that serious apprehensions are entertained as to an entire failure of the wheat in our immediate neighborhood, and next to the direct, unfortunate results of such a state of affairs. will he the efforts of mercenary speculators to increase the prices of breadstuffs. We are anxious to protect the people from their operations, and this can be best done hy reliable information from all parts of the country, and tion to our request.

The River Improvement Convention after two days session in our city, adjourned yesaccepted also as a memorial to Congress, fully set forth the importance of the measure, and the claims of the Ohio hasin to the favorable consideration of Congress. While the seamation from the general treasury, while the canni nt Sanit Ste. Marie has been thus built, and the Delta of the Mississippi rendered navigable, and the Chesapeake and Dalaware TOUKSVIELE, KY. bays have been under the fostering care of the country, the commerce of the Ohio River has been taxed to support the canal around our Falls. This could be avoided if all the States interested would make a unanimous demand; unity of interest should induce unity of action, and the want of that . unity has up to this time heen a greater ohstruction to the Ohio river than the falls below our city. This convention is a movement in the right direction; but will the delegates work after they have returned to their homes? It is certain that resolutions can accomplish nothing. Memorials to Congress will be read and then slumber in pigeon holes, with the accumulating dust of years as their covering. This convention is but the "Attention!" which should awaken every river city and town and every village on its tributarics, and everybody should volunteer for the campaign and be prepared to fall into ranks for activo service. If the Executive Committee ordered to be appointed will work with zeal they can accomplish much. It will he seen that all the Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, and municipal authorities interested, are requested to lend their co-operative aid to the work of the convention. To do this effectually, let the preamble and resolutions he printed. signed and forwarded to Congress with millions of signatures, and let it be distinctly understood at Washington that the Ohio Valley is asking for a recognition of her long delayed rights, and that she is not willing to have any further procrastination. Do this, FINE CLOTHING. and we will have our requests complied with promptly.

The St. Louis Republican of the 14th instant had the following notice of a primary meeting held in St. Louis to appoint delegates to the radical convention which met here a few days ago:

THE JACOBIN CONVENTION AT LOUISVILLS. prominent actor in the affair advised the egates, one and all of them, to go to Louisarmed, assigning as a reason that he just been there, and that the citizens not permit such an assemblage The people of Louisville are too hos-and too much inclined to see and she themselves merry over such ridienlous edings with prayer. As it seems to be cou ded, also, that niggers may be there a elegates, it will be a new feature in this ag civilization, to find them armed to the them and the them are the them did not attend the convention; though, if we may judge from the suggestion of one of the leading members of the body, there is a fair probability that the note body, there is a fair probability that the note body. probability that the next convention will be composed principally if not exclusively of negroes. The white delegates from Missouri lowever, were generally on hand, but whether or not they eame armed, in accordance with the advice of the hero of the meeting at Turners' Hall, we are unable to say. If the delegates in neral come armed, their hearts must have aled them after they got here, for, instead of depending upon themserves for protection, they mediately called in a guard of national soldiers, t'at attended as we are informed throughout the sittings of the convention Possibly, however, the delegates took this precaution in the spirit which prompted Mac beth to resolve upon the murder of Maeduff, desiring to

And take a bond of fate, so that they might be able to Aud sleep in spite of thunder.

Bethis as it may, the incident is certainly a very curious illustration of that popular favor in Kentucky of which the radicals are accustomed to hoast. And in this relation we cannot forhear to adduce the still more significan have publicly appenled to the radicals of the North for pecuniary aid in the work of starting a radical newspaper here. Furthermore, started yet, a result which seems to imply, that, while home contributions are scarce, foreign contributions are not plentiful. Probably the Northera Hercules thinks the Kentucky petitioner should first put his own shoulder to the wheel. At all events the fact is as we have

We do not propose to dwell on these somewhat remarkable indications; hut, in view of them, we respectfully submit to the radicals that their customary boasting of popular favor in Kentucky

More honored in the breach, than the ebsorvance. When they can hold a convention in Kentacky without feeling the necessity of armed men to protect the assembly from the popular indignation, and can establish a single newspaper in the State without invoking the aid of the Northern abolitionists, it will be quite time enough for them to hoast of the favor of Mentuckians. Until then at least the vaunt will prove a little too broad to be relished hy any except the good-humored conservatives.

That Kentucky loyalty is not mere pnlp—that it has substance and something of a backbone, we have never doubted. But it yet puzzles us whether it he fish, flesh, or fowl.

N. Y. Times. Well, Times, what matters it? Are not those three articles all very good?

Why do the Republicans dislike Mr. Fernando Wood? They hate conservatism, and he does it more harm than any twenty of them put together.

Blackford, of Parkersburg, were appointed vice-Presidents, and Hamilton Smith, jr., of Cannellton, as Assistant Secretary. Mr. Thruston, of Pittsburg, from the national aspect of the work is complete, and all experience has shown that water communi-cation cannot be excelled in its facilities for ration cannot be executed in its facilities to heavy transportation. The future of the country, as well as its present necessity, demands that the Ohio river should he an uninterrupted artery of that commence which will be a supported by the commence of e with years, and with the bles. folly established. He invoked legislative aid to the work, and hoped it would be promptly given. Our country is the home of the world, and we combine within ourselves the Alexie and we combine within ourselves the world, and we combine within ourserves the blessings of overy climate, while the fertility of our scil and the boundless extent of our territory can nover be exhausted as the habitation of the large number of immigrants who are seeking our shores. We can compete with the industry of all European countries, and the rest beging weaked by the this cand its

The plan is of minor importance; the triumpos of engineering are the assurance that all difficulties can be overcume, and we cannot suppose that this great work ld be commenced upon any plan which not been carefully devised, and would mplish the end in view. The resolutions which he submitted were as follows: Whereas, the Chile River, teating its source in the sterior of the State of Pennsylvania and passing in a course through and along the territory of the dates of Pennsylvania, West Virginie, Olifo, Indiana, Centucky and Illinois, for a distance of one thousand dies, is a great natural channol for the distriction, in response to the distribution, in response to the distribution of the angle of the manner, of the products of nearly cry State of the Union.

And, whereas, the frequent interruption to the navitation of the Ohio Iron an insufficient depth of water in the language and the nation in the Chile Ohio basin direction and the nation in the Chile Ohio basin direction and the nation in the Chile Ohio basin direction.

Mhersers, Butter, E. Needam, Thruston, and Wharton spoke at length upon the policy to be adopted. The general tenor of their remarks was, that the memorial to Coagress should ask simply for an appropriation, and not embarress the action by designating any particular plan. The Chicago Ship Canal is to be under the control of three Commissions to be under the control of three Commissions. ent of a perfect plan to accomplish all that Mr. Butler was opposed to any connection

We have a sufficient depth of water r saven to nine months in the year and it rould be the height of folly to imperil these dvantages for the sake of experimenting to ecure the other three or five months.

Mr. Wharton did not look at the Illinois which we could not do now under our treaties with Great Britain, while she, with the Wel-land Ganal, and the St. Lawrence river, could send her whole navy, in case of necessity, within our waters. He did not doubt that schemers would be found who would take was no reason why it should meet disfavor. He was opposed to the resolution of Mr. Butler, as it places us in the position of dictating to Congress. Mr. Butler said it was simply precautionary in order to obtain the cordial assent of all who were interested in the improvement. Mr. Sparks, of Jeffersonville, said we should act with courtesy, and yet with determination, in letting our members of Congress know that we were in earnest in our amplication. The resolution provides no our application. The resolution provides no plan for any united action after the Boards and municipalities have acted upon the memorial of the convention. How are we to know what action those hodies have taken, and how can we get anbacquent and final action? Mr. Thruston offered the following as a sabstitute for the resolution of Mr. Butler:

MORNING DESPATORES. Special Descatch to the Louisville Journal IN THE FIELD, 2 MILES EAST OF RINGGOLD, February 23, 10 P. M. General Palmer, with the 14th army corps sold. A portion of the 30th here dismounted and moved toward and occupied a creit under a severe fire. This position was held until ten minutes before 3 c'clock, when Carlin's brigade of infantry came up and relived the enralty. An advence was ordered, when the enemy rapidly gave way.

A mile and a half to the rear, on a spurthat commands the open fields over which we advanced, the train rebel force constructed a temporary barricade of rails, and prepared to dispute our advance. Having driven in his skinnishers, which work was handsemely performed, the 83th Indiana, assisted by the 30th Indiana, mounted, approached the enemy through heavy timber and pino and drew the rebel fire in front. As the right appeared, rising the slope, the enemy gave way, abandoning their barricale, and routing. The whote infantry line alranced, checked slightly by the rebel skirmishers, who were reluetant to refire. One company of the 30th, passing far to the right unobserved by the enemy, charged along the southern slove into his fank, spreading dismat, and compulsatory enlistment in their tent, and compulsatory enlisted with out it a corsen'; and proclem tion that one tent in their tent in the corsen, and proclem the contrary tent entire tent entire. He had scercely reached the Gap, three miles south, and gunreed by four pieces of artillery, when Cel. Hoone, with the 23th Kentucky, which was crossing White Oak Mourtain by Wood's Gap, had operated on and protected our right flank, and came on his flank.

Wheeler's forces were largely superior to Cul. Boone's, who were aided by artillery and caused the retirement of the 28th to uur lines at Tunnell Hill. I entered Tunnell Hill with the 19th about 4½ o'clock. The town was once peopled by a population of 500, but lass now only seven families. The reol cavalry held Tunnell Hill within gunshot of the town, and supported it is believed by a small force of infantry, in few works of infantry for the control of the States and the preservation of our fair land from pollution, and to avoid a doem which we can result both in the threats of our enemy and the acts of oppression we have alluded to.

OUTHERN ACCOUNTS OF SHERMAN'S EX-PEDITION-PARTICULARS FROM THE MIS-SISSIPPI PAPERS-THE LATE SOUTHERN TELEGRANS-TERATMENT OF PRISONERS AT BICHMOND-CIRCULAR TO GEORGIA WO-MEN. From the Macon (Ga.) Daily Confederate, 18b. 11.}

THE SITUATION IN MISSISSIPPI. The news from Mississippi is of the highest importance. It was thought by many that the enemy would stop at Jackson and make it a permanent camp. But this idea was ab-surd, taken in connection with the fact that they were forty-two thousand strong. Our news this morning is that they have crossed Pearl River (upon which Jackson is situated), and that they are advancing along the line of the Southern Railroad, in the direction of

The plain trnth about this whole matter is, that this expedition has started out to capture Mobile. It may first strike the Tomhigbee at Demopolis, and capture Selma and Montgomery, but the final point is the Gulf City. Our aimy nuder General Polk, confronting the eneuty, is very small. It does not hardly number one-half the cuenty's force. General Polk, if he fights them at all outside of the breastworks around Mobile, will tell them as far towards Meridian as possible. Perhaps he will deliver battle on the Chunky River, an important stream crossing the railroad east of Brandon.

out of Brandon.

Our force is too weak to risk a pitched battle in the open field with much prospect for success. If we can get the advantage in ground, a general battle may take place. But our hope seems to be chiefly in massing the cavalry of Lee, Forrest, and Chalmers, and effectually cutting the enemy's communica-tion with the base of his supplies. The country through which he will move is one of the most sterile and unproductive in the South, affording scarcely anything upon which to subsist an army of the magnitude of that of

No telegraphic despatches for the press are allowed over the wires, and consequently we are forced to rely upon our excellent Western contemporaries for news. Gen. Sherman.

From the Meridian Clarion, 16tb.] STUATION IN MISSISSIPPI-THE ENEMY ADVANC-ING EAST OF JACKSON--THEIR FORCE 42,000-A BATTLE IMMINENT.

We have just returned from the front. The we have just returned from the front. The enemy is steadily advancing, and policy thus far has prompted us to retire before him. Saturday they crossed Pearl River from Jackson, and Sunday night found them at Spear's Cut. Monday evening they reached the vicinity of Morton, where the advance of both armies to the steady of t and Sunday night found them at Spear's Cut, Monday evening they reached the vicinity of Morton, where the advance of both armies skirmished sharply for a few minutes. Our army was formed in line of battle nbout one mile east of Morton, but the enemy made no advance up to the time our army withdrew, which was during the early part of Monday

The enemy's force is ascertained to consist of 30,000 infantry, 12,000 cavalry, and 62 pieces of artillery. Its destination is, undoubtedly, Mobile, while a part may, if not checked, attempt to break up our railroad communication, which, if successful, will of the steps taken to counteract the plans of the enemy, it is not for us to speak. We have a calm confidence in Gen. Polk, and are willing to trust him and his able Generals in the important moves now being made. We are confident he will do nothing rashly; that he will no. sacrifice his little army unnecessarily, but wherever and whenever a blow cau be struck at the advancing forces it will be prompily given. Our people may rest assured that all will he done the forces in this department are capable of performing, and if the fortunes of the day require our army to fall promptly given. Our people may rest assured that all will he done the forces in this department are capable of performing, and if the fortness of the day require our army to fall back, it must be done, and we must bring forth a spirit of resignation to accept cheer-fully our lot. No misfortuno here will alter the final triumph of our arms and the inde-pendence of the South. Each man for himself must use his own judgment in the course to be pursued on the hino of the enemy's

Gen. Lee returned to Jackson on Sunday night, and there is no doubt ere this he is on the wing east of Pearl River. [From the Meridien Miss.] Clarlon, 10th.

The above we clip from the army correspondence of the Mobile Evening News, "Clint." Gen. He arks no praise but will describe the command of the devertigant. him since placed in the command of this department. He asks no praise, but will do his duty as becomes a Christian soldior and a gentleman. We would not have noticed the paragraph if its tene had not been to create a feeling of disastisfaction with the General who commanded this department at a time when every effort should be made, by Green, en last Sabbath, had not put into the heart of "Clint" a charitable sense of feeling to all, rather than a spirit of fault-finding. which was alike uncalled for and out of Private sources of information represent the enemy still advancing eastward in the direction of Miridian. Gen. Polk had his headquarters yesterday at Newton Station, thirly miles east of Morton, and sixty miles east of Jackson. About ten miles from Newton is the Chunky River, which, at this season of the year, is not fordable, and can be crossed only with bridges. Here, it is likely, our army will take position and offer battle to the enemy, with all the chances in our favor.

If this advance of Sherman on Meridian is an isolated movement, it is the most fool-hardy and absurdly-adventurous undertaking of the present war, and the probabilities are that his army will he destroyed. If, on the other hand, it is part of a combined campaign, embracing an advance from Huntsville sonthward, there is danger in the continuous and the continuous and the continuous arms. which it behoves our military authorities to make ample provision. Grant, who commands all the military operations of the Sonthwest, is the most enterprising and reckless campaigner the war has developed, and and a second and a second and a second and a second a sec it is possible, and if successful would inflict incalculable dninage to our cause. Thanks to Providence, a wary commander sits in his front, watching with eagle-eye all his movements on the military chess hoard, prepared to checkmate him on his first bad play. While Johnston is at Dalton, no step of Grant's escapes him, and he has, doubtless, already provided for the very contingency we have just indicated.

[From the Selma Mississlppi in, 19th. Our accounts from Morton, though meagre, are quite cheering. The advance of the enemy from Jackson is not deemed ominous by any means; on the contrary, it is regarded as a highly favorable feature of the

The force of the enemy is variously estimated at frem 25,000 to 40,000. The best advices we have place his force at 35,000. It was thought in Meridian yesterday norning that a battle was pending either at Morton or Pelehatchie. If a battle is fought in either place, we have the atmost confidence that its results will be the almost total annihilation of the enemy. We ardently hope that such will be the finale of McPherson's advance, and that our friends in Mississippi will he effectually relieved of the plundering thieves of Liucolndom.

[From the Montgomery Mail, February 13.] It appears that the enemy, on arriving at fortou, stole a march on General Polk and noved off in the direction of Mobile. Findsent a portion of his troops to reinforce the garrison at that point, and with the residue retired to Meridian. The cavalry, including the combined commands of Gens. Lee and Forrest, are reported at last accounts in possession of Jackson and hovering on the energy's rear. This statement seems above in newson of sacked and novering on the ene-my's rear. This statement seems almost in-credible, and yet it is vouched for by reliable gentlemen who left Meridian on Thursday norning, and is confirmed by the nate of General Maury to the Editor of the Mobil Register, which will be found in another

REMARKABLE HOLD ON LIPE .- Major Geo. N. Lewis, of the 12th regiment, is in town. His remarkable wound promises to heal, and his life will be saved. Not one man in ten thousand would survive such a wound. It was a canister shot, weighing about four ounces, and made a hole clear through him, shattering his collar bone and shoulder blade, and splintering his spine. It did not displace the vertehre, which would probably have ended his life suddenly, but it has left a hole through him, and it is said that even now a stick can be passed through it. A number of pieces of boundary been taken and cces of bone have been taken out.
